

Staffordshire Muslim Youth Conference

A FREE conference which aims to bring young British Muslims together with partner agencies to discuss fresh ideas for the betterment and future of Muslim Youth in Britain

SATURDAY 7TH MAY 2011

9.30am – 4.30pm

Staffordshire University, Ashley Building, Leek Road, Stoke-on-Trent, ST4 2DF

There is currently a political debate within society about Britain's young Muslim populations and their role in British society. And with the continual scrutiny of their communities and faith, this debate is getting louder. This conference will provide a forum for young Muslims from across Staffordshire to address the following questions:

- How did the world change for Muslim Youth following the 9/11 and 7/7 attacks?
- Do young Muslims regard themselves as British Muslims?
- Are Young British Muslims attracted with the notion of extremism and Jihad?
- What can agencies do to support our young British Muslim to become more integrated within the communities they live in?

Key Note Speaker

‘Can you be British and Muslim’?

Dr Joel Hayward
Dean Royal Air Force College

This conference is aimed at Muslim youth from across Staffordshire between the ages of 12 years to 21 years
